

Synchronous and Asynchronous Process

Synchronous process: in a synchronous process when a request is made, the flow stops until the request is resolved.

Asynchronous process: in an asynchronous process the request is made but the flows does not stop, when the response is ready, the main process will be notified and the response Will be integrated into the Flow.